

NEW EQUIPMENT SALES

With the concept of lean manufacturing pervasive in nearly every industry, the number of vendors allowed by many major manufacturers has been cut drastically. Integrated supply contracts have become a standard operating procedure for many manufacturing companies. However, the highly technical nature of precision measuring equipment has proven a difficult hurdle for industrial distributors. This technical where-with-all to support such products is exactly what Fox Valley Metrology deals in every day.

In our commitment to providing our partners with a single source for all their quality assurance needs, Fox Valley Metrology continues to maintain one of the strongest partnership networks in the industry with these industrial distributors and all of the major equipment manufacturers. This network allows us to provide all of our partners with invaluable benefits, such as:

- Complex application solutions. We can solve even the most complex problem through our technical expertise and the manufacturer's resources available at our finger tips.
- Staying ahead of your competition. Our manufacturer's representatives keep us on top of industry trends in equipment so we can provide you with state-of-the-art solutions.
- Minimal training to learn new tools. If you have a favorite brand, we can support it with our wide breadth of offerings.
- Cost effective pricing and timely delivery. By being a preferred distributor of many manufacturers, we can ensure the best pricing and lead times available.
- Minimal market research. We stay on top of seasonal specials from manufacturers so you don't have to.
